The Office of Career Services developed this resource to assist you in crafting and updating your legal resume. The information included should be used as a general guideline for preparing your resume. Each individual brings different strengths and experiences to a job search. Career Services counselors are here to assist you in fine tuning the information in your resume to maximize your strengths and help determine the most effective content. Remember, there is nothing wrong with having multiple resume templates with which to work, depending on the type of job you're applying for, or the setting.

I. PREPARING YOUR RESUME

GETTING STARTED - THE BASICS

- ✓ Use simple, clean typefaces in a format that is easy to read.
- ✓ Make your resume neat, consistent and error-free.
- ✓ Be accurate; that means absolutely precise and correct.
 - Employers discontinue consideration of candidates whose resumes contain inaccuracies relating to class rank, GPA, work experience or any other matter.
- ✓ Limit your resume to one page.
 - If you are a second career law student, or if you intend to pursue a public interest or government career, you may use two pages. This will give you the ability to list all relevant prior work experience and/or community service positions.
- ✓ Print your resume and cover letter on good quality, neutral-colored bond paper.

II. SUBSTANCE OF YOUR RESUME

The format for a law school resume follows this pattern:

- A. Name/Contact Information
- B. Education
- C. Experience
- D. Skills or Special Qualifications (OPTIONAL)
- E. Community Service, Military Service, or Volunteer Service (OPTIONAL)
- F. Publications (OPTIONAL)
- G. Interests (OPTIONAL)
- H. Languages

Material you should omit from your resume:

- An “Objective.” Unless otherwise requested by the employer, “Objective” statements are not used in the legal profession and are out of fashion in general, in favor of a “Profile” section, if you choose to include such a section.
- References. Do not include references on your resume or the phrase “References available upon request.”
- LSAT scores.
- Personal data (date of birth, social security number, marital status, and possibly your physical address).
- No prospective entries that are not confirmed. Do not include a journal position unless you have been invited & accepted it (same for Travis Lewin Advocacy Honors Society, etc.). Do not list an internship, externship, volunteer position or other work position unless you have accepted the role.
- Latin graduation honors (e.g., cum laude) until after graduation.
- Information that would breach client confidentiality.

A. CONTACT INFORMATION

Historically, the type of personal information typically included on a resume is name, address, cell number, email (SU) address, and LinkedIn profile. Recently, however, physical address is sometimes omitted or included strategically, to establish a connection to a geographic area. Privacy concerns influence some job seekers to simply omit their physical address. The contact information section should all appear at the top of your resume. If you must use a personal email, make sure the address is professional.

- Example: futurelawyer@email.com will not be viewed as professional by an employer.

If you are from a geographic location outside of Central New York and are open to working in either Central New York or your hometown, you may include both, as shown below:

Kate Wales

LinkedIn profile here
Current Address:	Permanent Address:
111 Ivy Ridge Road	632 Peyton Circle
Syracuse, NY 13210	Los Angeles, CA 30089

B. EDUCATION

The substantive portion of a resume for current students should begin with the Education section (graduates who have been working for 3+ years should begin with Experience).

List educational institutions in reverse chronological order, most recent first (see sample resumes in Appendix B for examples of how to present this information).

The degree you are receiving should be presented as “J.D.” or “Juris Doctor”, not Juris Doctorate.

High school information would generally not be included on your resume. There are rare occasions where it might be acceptable or useful (i.e., a connection to an employer or alumni/ae). Speak with a counselor if you’re uncertain.

Transfer students: If you have transferred to Syracuse after completing your 1L year elsewhere, please follow these guidelines:

- ▶ Lead with Syracuse University College of Law.
- ▶ Include your prior law school information but keep it concise.
- ▶ Be selective regarding which honors and awards you include from your prior school since strong academic achievement is assumed for transfers. Consider including items that highlight major accomplishments of your first-year experience, such as moot court or journal invitations, or membership (esp. leadership) in student organizations.

- ▶ Since you are no longer a degree candidate at the school from which you transferred, write, “First-year Legal Studies, 20 -20 ” where degree information would normally appear.
- ▶ You need not include your GPA or class rank from your prior institution (you will have neither here at Syracuse in the beginning), but if they are very high, feel free to include them.

Transfer Example:

EDUCATION

Syracuse University College of Law, Syracuse, NY
Candidate for J.D., May 2023

Other Law School, Cleveland, OH

First-year Legal Studies, 2019 – 2020

Honors: Invited to become Executive Editor of Law Review

GPA/Class Rank

The general rule is to include your GPA if it is a 3.0 or higher. The GPA you include on your resume must match your current transcript to the nearest hundredth.

Do not round your GPA. Simply extend your GPA out two decimal points.
(Example: 3.636 = 3.63)

As a general rule, if you are in the top 30% of your law school class you should include that information.

You should express your class standing as a percentage, e.g., top 30%

If you list your class rank as a fraction (e.g., 16/223), you should also compute that fraction into a percentage - don't leave the math for the employer.

If your class rank computes to 13.6% or 13.2%, you are in the top 14%; never round down.

Note: Although grades are an important criterion for some employers, please do not obsess over them. You can improve your class standing over time or augment your academic information with clinics, externships and employment experience.

Honors

Create a separate subheading entitled “Honors” in the appropriate school section. List relevant honors separately in order of importance, not alphabetically or chronologically. For any honor that is not obvious, include a brief parenthetical description.

Example: Pi Sigma Alpha (Political Science Honor Society)

Activities

Include selected activities as a separate subheading entitled “Activities” in the appropriate school section.

List each activity separately in order of importance, not alphabetically or chronologically. If any activities are not self explanatory include a brief, parenthetical description - i.e., SPIN should include an explanation that says it stands for “Syracuse Public Interest Network.”

C. EXPERIENCE

While it is perfectly acceptable to separate out different types of experiences if you prefer, it is not necessary to create distinctions between “Legal Experience,” “Other Work Experience,” or “Other Professional Experience.” You can list them all under “Experience.”

- ✓ List all employment in reverse chronological order, i.e., the most recent first, setting forth the employer’s full name, the city and state where the employer is located, the title of your position and dates of employment.
 - For dates of employment, either use the season (Fall 2019) or months and year (Aug. 2019 - May 2020), but not both; pick one or the other.

Describing Your Responsibilities & Contributions

Your descriptions should emphasize your responsibilities and contributions, rather than your routine duties. Most importantly, focus on those tasks that use skills relevant to the practice of law in any setting.

- Focus on skills such as research and writing, negotiating, analyzing data, decision-making, communicating and supervising
- Start each description with an action verb, such as “directed,” “managed,” and “negotiated;” create the image of an achiever

- ❑ Use past tense for former experiences and present tense for current experiences
- ❑ Never use personal pronouns (“I”, “my”, “they”, “their”, etc.) or any other form of first person in describing your tasks
- ❑ Use active verbs/phrases, e.g., “negotiated real estate contracts”
- ❑ Avoid phrases such as “Duties and responsibilities included...”

When describing your experiences, write from the potential employer’s perspective; highlight accomplishments that are most relevant to the position you’re seeking. Be sure you give some specific details, so that the employers can more fully see the breadth of your experience. Do not be too general - give them an idea of the substance of that work.

- ✓ Do not go into a long discussion of the legal issues you worked on; simply mention them and move on.
- ✓ Do not include case names or sections of the law unless very relevant to that employer.
- ✓ See Appendix A for a list of buzz words that can assist you with drafting your job descriptions.

Military Service

Military service can be a separate section after your “Experience” section or can be indicated in the “Experience” section. Be sure to include any noteworthy accomplishments and any citations or commendations. If you are presently in an active reserve unit, you should indicate that information as well.

D. SKILLS OR SPECIAL QUALIFICATIONS

Employers value language proficiency and fluency, as well as unique computer expertise. These items should be included under the heading “Skills,” “Special Qualifications,” or “Languages.”

- ✓ Mention language skills if you are fluent or highly proficient.
- ✓ Computer skills should only be listed if they are not commonplace. Do not include your proficiency with Word, WordPerfect, Lexis and Westlaw, etc.

E. COMMUNITY INVOLVEMENT OR VOLUNTEER SERVICE

If you are, or were, involved with any community organizations, you may include them under a subheading entitled “Community Involvement” or “Volunteer Service.” Those considering careers in the public interest sector should be sure to include such a section. Be mindful of the potential hiring consequences of sharing information about your involvement with controversial affiliations.

F. PUBLICATIONS

"Publications" can either be cited as a separate subsection in the "Education" section or it may instead be listed in its own section above "Interests."

Use the Bluebook format (the accepted format in the legal profession) to cite any of your writings that have been published.

- ✓ Any writing which is scheduled to be published should be indicated by at least the title and name of the journal.
- ✓ If you have the information, indicate the volume and page of the publication and the date, e.g., "to be published [date]" or "forthcoming [date]."

G. INTERESTS

Some people choose to include an "Interests" section on their resumes. The purpose is to make a connection with the interviewer and promote conversation. If you want to include Interests, be as specific as possible in describing them; entries such as "reading and cooking" are too general. Something like "West Indian literature and French cooking" would be more appropriate. Remember that anything you list is fair game for discussion.

Example: If you list reading Hemingway as an interest, you must be ready to discuss his works.

III. THE PROFESSIONAL LOOK OF YOUR RESUME

The key, as with most things in life, is to strike a balance.

Be your own best critic: ask yourself what impression your resume makes. Is it easy to read? Or is it overstuffed with information? The more white space, the easier it is for others to read, and the more effectively you'll communicate your skill set. Make conservative use of headings, italics, underlines, capitalization, and bold. Remember, your resume is a professional document.

The basics of resume formatting are:

- If you are printing your resume, use 8 1/2” x 11” paper of good quality, 20-25 lb., at least 25% cotton;
- If printing hard copies, use white, off-white or cream colored paper (forget grays & pastel blues);
- Use black ink;
- Use the following fonts:
 - 13 or 14 point font for your name
 - 11 or 12 point font for the remainder of the text
 - 10 point font is not advised;
- Stay away from borders or designs;
- For a resume that is more than one page: if you are providing the employer with a hard copy, it must be stapled, and your name and the page number must appear in the top left-hand corner of each extra page;
- Left and right/top and bottom margins should be of equal size (0.5 inch -1 inch); and
- Use a good quality printer.

Consistency

Consistency in formatting is essential. Once you choose to format a section in a particular way, you must format all other sections similarly.

Accuracy

What you represent in your resume has to be truthful and accurate, and free of typographical, grammatical and spelling errors. NO TYPOS!

Attention to detail is an important element of an attorney’s craft. If employers detect an error in a resume they may conclude that you will be equally sloppy and careless about your work for them. Share your resume with at least one friend or family member to check for typos or other errors.

IV. FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. I am a joint degree student. How do I reflect this on my resume?

Your legal education should appear first, followed by a separate entry for your graduate school. We highly recommend separate entries, especially if you have law school honors and activities. If you combine the degrees it will be confusing to read.

Example:

EDUCATION

Syracuse University College of Law, Syracuse, NY

Candidate for J.D., May 2022

Honors: Syracuse Law Review, Executive Editor

Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs, Syracuse, NY

Candidate for M.P.A., May 2022

Bloomsburg University of Pennsylvania, Bloomsburg, PA

B.A. in English, cum laude, May 2018

2. I have secured a position for the upcoming school year, but have not yet started. Can I update my resume now?

Yes. You can add positions such as externships and research assistantships to your resume prior to starting the position. Do not add a job description: just include the employer, city, title, and dates. The entry should appear first under your “Experience” section.

Example:

EXPERIENCE:

United States Department of Justice

Extern, United States Attorney’s Office, N.D.N.Y.

Syracuse, NY

Aug. 2022 – May 2023

Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives
Washington, DC

Summer Law Intern Program

Summer 2023

3. Does my resume have to be all on one page?

When at all possible. There are some exceptions, such as applying for fellowships, certain government & public interest positions, as well as intellectual property positions for someone who has conducted scientific research. Come speak with a Career Services counselor if you are unsure.

Often, it is best to have more than one version of your resume, tailoring the information you include to a specific type of employer. Your resume for a government employer may look different from your resume for a law firm as it might highlight your volunteer work or research in a certain class.

4. I am interested in pursuing a position related to my joint degree or a non-traditional career. Will my resume differ?

The format of resumes for positions related to, for example, an M.B.A. or M.P.A. program may differ when compared to that of a traditional legal position. If you would like to use a degree other than your J.D., you should work with the career services office of your other degree program to create a second version of your resume. Should you be interested in pursuing a non-traditional legal position, schedule an appointment with a College of Law Career Services Counselor to discuss how to best tailor your resume.

5. How do I show that I held 2 different positions within the same employer?

List the employer once and put all positions held under that heading with the appropriate dates. The positions should be listed in reverse chronological order, most recent first.

Example:

Grove Manor

Recreational Therapist

Assisted disabled nursing home residents by adapting their past leisure activities to their current disabilities. Formed group that focused on special needs of male residents. Tracked patient progress in medical charts and federal paperwork.

Waterbury, CT

October 2018 – July 2019

Recreation Aid

Provided assistance to Recreational Therapists as requested. Transported residents to activities. Set up recreational activities and assisted with activities.

March 2017 – October 2018

6. My article was chosen as an alternate for publication in a journal or Syracuse Law Review. Can I put this on my resume as a “Publication” or “Honor”?

No, this information should not be included on your resume.

7. I met with a Career Services counselor about my resume. Do I have to upload my resume to Symplicity?

Yes, particularly if you plan on applying to positions that require you to apply via Symplicity. All resumes uploaded to Symplicity must be approved before they can be used, even if you have already met with a Career Services counselor. Approval can take between 3-5 business days. Remember to proofread your final version before uploading.

8. I just uploaded my resume to Symplicity, but I don’t see it on the system.

Check the “Documents” tab.

9. What are some common formatting issues that I should look out for when reviewing my resume?

Consistency is the biggest formatting issue with respect to resumes. Always print your resume because it makes it easier for you to revise and proofread.

- ✓ Abbreviate a state in your job description? States in your contact information and education section should be abbreviated.
- ✓ Microsoft Word often auto-formats hyphens making them different sizes (– vs. -). Be sure to look out for this.
- ✓ Abbreviate a longer month like January? Yes. Abbreviate the longer months. Do not abbreviate months such as May, June or July.

- ✓ Make sure your resume is balanced on the page (i.e., the same amount of blank white space at the top and bottom of your resume).

10. I am still currently working for an employer. How do I reflect this on my resume?

For dates of employment, your end date is “Present.” Current employment should be the first entry appearing under the “Experience” section. Be sure that verbs for current employment are in the present tense, even if you are referring to skills you used in the past.

Example:

United States Department of Justice

Extern, United States Attorney’s Office, N.D.N.Y.

Research and draft legal motions and memoranda. Assist attorneys in the Criminal Division in trial preparation and settlement negotiations. Observe civil and criminal court proceedings.

Binghamton, NY

Aug. 2018 – Present
